Partnerid:

- Sussex Centre for Migration Research at the University of Sussex
- Intercultural Studies research group at Roskilde University
- Research Centre on Transnationalism and Transformation at the University of Tampere.

Objectives:

1. To establish a research center at TU which would conduct locally, nationally and internationally relevant research on East-West migration and migrant integration.
2. To advance the quality and volume of research on migration, especially East-West migration, and migrant integration issues in cooperation with the MIRNet project partners, with a special focus on supporting early career researchers.
3. To improve the networking position and visibility of all the partners and especially the migration and integration research scholars of TU via increased and more strategic staff mobility.
4. To improve the ability of TU and all the partners to attract research funding both at the national and international level for migration and integration research.

The concept of the MIRNet research strategy is based on the following underlying principles:

- focus on dynamic patterns of migration and migrant integration in Europe
- interdisciplinarity of the research
- orientation towards policy relevance of the research ideas.
